Why must MuMetal® alloy be final annealed to develop magnetic shielding performance?

To obtain optimum magnetic properties, annealing MuMetal® alloy following fabrication is essential. This should be done in a furnace that allows for careful control of the annealing temperature and cooling rate. Optimum properties are reached in a pure hydrogen atmosphere.